

ABSTRACT

An accessory for a ladder includes a set of wheels that can be attached to the feet of the ladder and a gear mechanism that couples those wheels to an operating handle. The operating handle includes a plurality of sections so it can be reached by a user who is supported on top of the ladder. Operation of the handle rotates the wheels to move the ladder while the user remains in place on the ladder.